FROM THE (NEW-YORK) EVENING POST.

The following is the correspondence that passed between General HAMILTON and Col. Burr...

No. I. New-York, June 18, 1864.

Dear Sir, I have the honor to receive your letter of the 15th inst. and in reply to inform you that I have no objection to your publishing the same...

No. II. New-York, June 20th, 1864.

I HAVE naturally reflected on the subject of your letter of the 15th inst. and am convinced that I could not without impropriety make the avowal or disavowal of the matter...

Between Gentlemen despicable and more despicable are not worth the pains of illustration...

But I forbear to further comment on the embarrassments to which the requisition you have made may lead...

Repeating that I cannot reconcile it with propriety to make the acknowledgement or denial you desire, I will add that I deem it inadmissible on principle to consent to be interrogated as to the justice of the inference which may be drawn by others...

As the publication of the receipt of your letter I have the honor to be, &c.

A. HAMILTON.

No. III. New-York, June 21st, 1864.

Your letter of the 20th inst. has been duly received. Having considered it attentively, I have decided in nothing of the propriety and delicacy which you profess to value.

Political opposition can never atone gentlemen from the necessity of a rigid adherence to the laws and the rules of decency. In neither of which privilege nor indulge it in others.

No. IV. June 23, 1864.

In the afternoon of yesterday, I reported to Col. Burr the result of my last interview with you, and appointed the evening to receive his further instructions...

No. V. New-York, June 22.

Your 1st letter, in a style too peevish, made a demand, in my opinion, unprecedented and unwarrantable. My answer, pointing out the embarrassment, gave you an opportunity to take a less exceptional course...

By a "definitely reply," you mean the direct avowal or disavowal required in your first letter, I have no other answer to give than that which has already been given.

General Hamilton says he cannot imagine to what Dr. Cooper may have alluded, unless it were to a conversation at Mr. Taylor's in Albany, last winter...

After the delivery of the Letter of the 22d, as above mentioned, in another interview with Mr. Van Ness he desired Mr. P. to give him in writing the substance of what he had proposed on the part of General Hamilton, which Mr. P. did in the words following:

No. VII. In answer to a letter properly addressed to him from Gen. Hamilton, in which he intimated to Col. Burr, with any particular instance of dishonorable conduct, or had intimated his private character, either in the conversation alluded to by Dr. Cooper or in any other particular instance to be specified.

No. VIII. THE letter which you yesterday delivered me and your subsequent communication, in Col. Burr's opinion evince no disposition on the part of Gen. Hamilton to come to a satisfactory accommodation.

No. IX. I HAVE communicated the letter which you did me the honor to write to me of this date to Gen. Hamilton. The expectations now closed on the part of Col. Burr appear to him to have greatly exceeded the original ground of inquiry...

No. X. THE letter which I had the honor to receive from you, under the date of yesterday, states among other things that you had ordered to be sent to Col. Burr a copy of a letter which you had written in which he evinces nothing short of predetermined hostility, and that Gen. Hamilton thinks it inadmissible that the inquiry should extend to his confidentially as well as other conversations...

The common sense of mankind affixes to the epithet adopted by Dr. Cooper, the idea of dishonor. It has been publicly applied to me under the sanction of your name. The question is not, whether he has understood the meaning of the word, or has used it according to syntax, and with grammatical accuracy; but whether you have authorized this application, either directly or by uttering expressions of opinion derogatory to my honor.

Your letter has furnished me with new reasons for requiring a definitive reply. I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant, A. BURR.

On Saturday the 22d of June, General Hamilton, for the first time, called on Mr. P. and communicated to him the preceding correspondence. He informed him that in a conversation with Mr. V. N. at the time of receiving the last letter, he told Mr. V. N. that he considered that letter as rude and offensive, and that it was not possible for him to give it any other answer than that Mr. Burr must take such steps as he might think proper.

No. IV. June 23, 1864. In the afternoon of yesterday, I reported to Col. Burr the result of my last interview with you, and appointed the evening to receive his further instructions.

No. V. New-York, June 22. Your 1st letter, in a style too peevish, made a demand, in my opinion, unprecedented and unwarrantable. My answer, pointing out the embarrassment, gave you an opportunity to take a less exceptional course.

No. VI. General Hamilton says he cannot imagine to what Dr. Cooper may have alluded, unless it were to a conversation at Mr. Taylor's in Albany, last winter.

No. VII. In answer to a letter properly addressed to him from Gen. Hamilton, in which he intimated to Col. Burr, with any particular instance of dishonorable conduct, or had intimated his private character, either in the conversation alluded to by Dr. Cooper or in any other particular instance to be specified.

No. VIII. THE letter which you yesterday delivered me and your subsequent communication, in Col. Burr's opinion evince no disposition on the part of Gen. Hamilton to come to a satisfactory accommodation.

No. IX. I HAVE communicated the letter which you did me the honor to write to me of this date to Gen. Hamilton. The expectations now closed on the part of Col. Burr appear to him to have greatly exceeded the original ground of inquiry.

No. X. THE letter which I had the honor to receive from you, under the date of yesterday, states among other things that you had ordered to be sent to Col. Burr a copy of a letter which you had written in which he evinces nothing short of predetermined hostility, and that Gen. Hamilton thinks it inadmissible that the inquiry should extend to his confidentially as well as other conversations.

He would be able to answer consistently with his honor, and the truth, in substance, that the conversation to which Dr. Cooper alluded, turned wholly on political topics, and did not attribute to Col. Burr any instance of dishonorable conduct, nor relate to his private character, and in relation to either his language or conversation of Gen. H., which Col. Burr will specify a prompt and frank avowal or denial will be given.

On the 28th June Mr. P. received the following letter: Sir, No. VIII. THE letter which you yesterday delivered me and your subsequent communication, in Col. Burr's opinion evince no disposition on the part of Gen. Hamilton to come to a satisfactory accommodation.

No. IX. I HAVE communicated the letter which you did me the honor to write to me of this date to Gen. Hamilton. The expectations now closed on the part of Col. Burr appear to him to have greatly exceeded the original ground of inquiry.

No. X. THE letter which I had the honor to receive from you, under the date of yesterday, states among other things that you had ordered to be sent to Col. Burr a copy of a letter which you had written in which he evinces nothing short of predetermined hostility, and that Gen. Hamilton thinks it inadmissible that the inquiry should extend to his confidentially as well as other conversations.

No. XI. REMARKS on the letter of June 27, 1864. Whether the observations on this letter are designed merely to justify the result which is indicated by the closed of the case, or may be intended to give an opening for a re-consideration, I am not prepared to judge. At any rate it appears to me necessary not to be misinterpreted. Gen. Hamilton is therefore authorized to say that in the course of the present discussion, written or verbal, there has been no intention to evade, deny or insult, but a sincere disposition to avoid extraneous if it can be done with propriety.

No. XII. A frank and free explanation of any and every object of a specific nature, but not embracing a general and abstract inquiry, embracing a period too long unpleasant recollections, and not requiring him to state in aid unfavorable facts. PHILADELPHIA, July 23. LETTERS FROM TRIPOLI.

On the 7th ult., we received a visit from the Minister of foreign affairs, who informed us that the British Government had granted us as a partial concession the privilege we most wished, that of visiting the different Consuls at their houses, but allowed us to go any where else. He gave orders that we should be admitted to his gardens, and his country palaces, and several of rank also invited us to theirs. We were, however, invited to the town 27th, this indulgence was walking about the town on the night of the 25th, between 11 and 12, we were awakened by the report of a cannon, and, on opening our windows, beheld the frigate Philadelphia in flames, which raged with great fury, and from the progress it had made, the mull and more ground or level from the frigate in the centre of the harbour, blazing from stem to stern, and to the very tops of her masts, all her ports disfigured, that they might be counted the cannon roaring from the cabin and the adjacent batteries. Before we left the window, her cables had burnt off, and she drifted out of sight—which I imagine might have been felt on her from the time of our departure.

As the circumstances we did not know, but readily conjectured, and agreed that they deserved great credit.

Mr. Nisbet, the Danish Consul, is really our friend, and his attentions have been unremitted, that we can never repay the services he has rendered.

Mr. P. S. had almost forgotten to mention the supplies the merchants have sent us which consist of every necessity.

Extract of a letter dated March 25th, from a midshipman at Tripoli, to his friends in this city.

I am happy to inform you, that on the night of the 10th, some of our valuable officers succeeded in destroying, by fire, the frigate Philadelphia. It appears that the intelligence of the success of the Enterprise, were on board of a vessel lying under Commodore Proule. In the evening, two vessels were seen standing in the harbour, under French colours; from which circumstance, no notice was taken of them, till the hour of 10, when the frigate was discovered to be a blaze. They commenced a heavy fire from the battery, but hope no injury was sustained on either side. In consequence of this loss, we were deprived of the pleasure of writing, departed the company of the Goliath, and the liberty we had was taken from us, and we were closely confined. Twenty ferocious looking fellows, each with a musket, brace of pistols, and axe, to guard us, I have no doubt but the British tactics, that we shall be frightened into a confession, as it is very anxious to know the particulars of the burning. Yesterday Capt. Bainbridge, wrote a note to the prime minister concerning our treatment. He very politely come to our prison, and informed Capt. Bainbridge, that it was impossible for him to do any thing at present, the British was so much enraged. As to the guards they would be severely punished, if they insisted on us. Capt. Bainbridge, in consequence of this loss, don't think we are to be intimidated by all the guards in his dominions—inform the British from me, that the safety of keeping an American officer in parole of honour. Hevallo informed us that all letters to us would be opened if any related to them, they would be destroyed—it not, the contents would be kept secret, and the letters delivered. The British in future, be careful on what subject you write.

Our droggoman has just informed us, we are to be removed to the palace in 2 or 3 days. If so, this is my last from a Tripolitan prison. Four months have almost expired, and yet no hopes of our being redeemed. The British, we are informed, intends to send on a flag of truce to Malta in search of Commodore Proule. This looks as though he wanted a passport with permission, that has the impudence of rowing their boats under cover of a heavy fort, and setting fire to a 44 gun frigate.

PORTSMOUTH, THURSDAY, AUG. 2.

JUDGE WALKER.

The "Palladium" Editors, no doubt misconstrued what was said in our last with respect to Judge W. and as we wish to be understood, I may be proper to state, that we did not mean to insinuate that Judge W. was a third party man; but on the contrary we believe, (should you credit common fame) he is decidedly republican: A second reading of what we then said, will we trust, convince the editors of their mistake.

GEN. HAMILTON AND COL. BURR.

What appeared to us immediately to concern the death of Gen. Hamilton, we this day hand to our readers. We have obtained from inferring any structure whatever, on the subject, wrote by different Editors, as they, or some of them, may have been the emotions of personal and political prejudice; and as we conceive that from the statements now presented to our readers, every man may form his own judgment—and in matters of this nature, they ought never to refrain from fully or heartily, conclusions. Opinions vary, with respect to the merits to be drawn from the correspondence, and alternately approve or condemn either General Hamilton or Col. Burr; for ourselves we shall on this occasion judiciously avoid comments and can only regret, that such things have happened. Fellow Citizens, who no doubt are interested on the occasion, first read, next reflect and then Judge—but impartially, and candidly.

The following letter was overlooked in the statement alluded to in the preceding paragraph.

No. XIII. Col. Burr arrived first on the ground, as had been previously agreed; when General Hamilton arrived, the parties exchanged salutations, and the records proceeded to make their arrangements. They measured the distance of the places, and cast lots for the choice of position, as also to determine by whom the word should be given, both of which fell to the second of Gen. Hamilton. They then proceeded to load the pistols in each other's presence, after which the parties took their stations. The gentleman who was to give the word, then explained the nature of the rules which were to be observed in it. The words were as follows: "The parties being placed at their stations—the second gives the word, shall ascertain whether they are ready; being answered in the affirmative, he shall say 'present,' after this the parties shall present and fire when they please."—One fire on two, three, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, STANZAS,

FROM THE PORTHOUSE OF CALEDON.
I saw the virtuous man content,
With life's unnumber'd woes;
And he was poor—without a friend—
Proud by a thousand foes.
I saw the Pindaric plants stare
In gullion trim, and gay;
His count was Nature's placid way,
His life a summer's day.
And I was caught in Volly's snare,
And join'd her giddy train;
But found her soon the nurse of care,
And Punishment and Pain.
'Twere surely in some guiding power
Which rightly suffers wrong;
Gives Vice to bloom its little hour,
But Virtue, late and long.

The following wholesale advice is copied from the wall of a country inn, where it was inscribed by the hand of the village schoolmaster.

COME, my old friend, and take a pot,
But mark how white I say;
While drinking to thy neighbor's health
Think not thy own away.
About too often is the case,
While we sit at o'er the pot,
And kindly with our friend good health,
Our own is quite forgot.
